

Family Violence Policy - Customers

1 POLICY STATEMENT AND PURPOSE

Gippsland Water (GW) recognises family violence is a serious and widespread issue that affects the whole community and that as an essential service provider it has a role to play in changing the prevalence of violence within families.

This policy outlines the support available to all customers who may be experiencing or perpetrating family violence. It acknowledges that customers may choose to directly disclose a previous experience of family violence or that they are currently living in a violent relationship. It also acknowledges that some customers might provide indications of family violence during interactions with customer service operators, particularly in relationship to capacity to engage with GW or make payments.

Further, the policy recognises that some customers who use violence in family relationships may disclose (either directly or indirectly) concerns about violent or abusive behaviour to customer service employees.

This policy:

- Recognises that family violence is unacceptable in any relationship.
- Ensures that customers impacted by family violence are treated with dignity, respect, and compassion and with sensitivity to age, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation.
- Regards the safety of victims and their children as priority.
- Recognises that the process of leaving a violent relationship is often a long and gradual one.
- Ensures that customers who indicate or disclose family violence are able to access support from GW regardless of their current financial capacity.
- Ensures that with any disclosure GW will take great care to treat the customer with sensitivity and ensure confidentiality

IMMEDIATE SAFETY RISK

If an employee believes there is an immediate risk to a customer's personal safety (or that of their children), they should encourage the caller to end the call and contact the Police immediately on 000. If there is a direct threat to the customer, it may be necessary for the employee to contact emergency services on their behalf.

As soon as possible, the employee should:

1. Alert their team leader or manager;
2. Enact strategies to ensure the safety and privacy of the customer prior to further correspondence.

5.1 Safety and Confidentiality

A safety alert on the customer account will signal Customer Service Operators that family violence risks have been previously discussed. The alert will prompt employees to exercise extra caution in relation to the account and to check if additional points of identification are required or there are restrictions in place on the account.

Employees will be actively encouraged to discuss any concerns with their team leader or manager.

5.2 Evidence Requirements

Gippsland Water recognises that family violence is a complex and sensitive issue for customers to discuss with their service provider. In order to prioritise customer safety and privacy, GW does not require customers to provide evidence of family violence.

5.3 Employee Training

All customer service employees are required to complete training designed to assist them to identify and respond to issues associated with family violence. The training will ensure that employees are equipped to work effectively with customers and ensure any issues they disclose are treated with respect and confidentiality. Employees will also develop awareness of external organisations that support individuals experiencing family violence to enable them to make appropriate referrals when required.

Employees will also be encouraged to identify customer behaviour and attitudes that reinforce family violence. Where a customer expresses concerns about their behaviour towards family members, it is expected that customer service employees will acknowledge the issue and provide referral to an appropriate support agency.

6 POLICY APPROVAL AND REVIEW
